What's New?

■ Last year, you helped me win Silver for the "Best Place to Buy Pottery" category in Bonita. I was a write-in candidate last year. I hoped winning would mean Upriver Ceramics would be listed as an option to vote for this year, but I've learned that you need to pay a ridiculous amount of money (in the thousands) to be listed as an option. That makes winning Gold very difficult, of course. But with your help, maybe we can do it!

If you can take a second to help, click on the link included with this email, and write in "Upriver Ceramics" as your vote. Voting ends 11:59pm on April 7th. I believe you can vote once per day per email address. Thank you!

■ Many pieces from my last batch are still available in my art cottage gallery or online at Etsy. Take a look at www.Etsy.com/Shop/UpriverCeramics

■ I'm currently finishing up the final piece of the next batch. It's a teapot, something I have looked forward to making again for a long time. Although, this one is simpler than the larger and more ornate ones I plan to make later. When dry, I'll do the bisque firing and a new batch of pieces will be done soon.
